UK Shootwarehouse MK5 Turbo Pigeon Flapper

Thank you for purchasing the Mk5 Turbo Pigeon Flapper, the following instructions are intended as a guide and do not guarantee 100 bird days in the field!

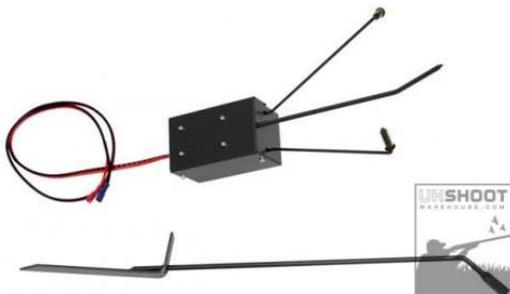

The unit is engineered and built in the UK and was is designed to operate with a dead decoy bird.

What's in the Box?

You should have;

1 x Motor Unit

1 x Ground Spike

If you have ordered any other gear such as decoys, speed controllers/timers or batteries please refer to separate instruction sheets before connecting them together.

Operation

1. Site the unit in the area in which you wish to decoy, ensuring that you can see and control access to the unit. Set the spike into the ground at an angle between vertical and 45°.
2. Attach the unit to the spike ensuring that the bird mount prongs are uppermost and tighten the thumb screw.

3. You can now mount a decoy bird remembering to break the wings first and remove the protective rubbers. Take the pigeon and insert the large spike in the middle of the unit through the birds body from the vent to the skull.

Push the wing spars through the leading edge of the wings where the white bar starts, once through the wing slide the protective rubbers back on to prevent the wings coming off.

4. Connect the unit to a timer if you are using one and adjust as necessary then connect to the battery.

5. The Mk5 Flapper will last for a good few hours shooting if you start the day with a fully charged, serviceable battery. Wipe off any excess moisture and soil before packing the unit away and keep the battery cables neatly coiled when not in use to avoid splits and kinks. The unit may benefit from a few drops of oil into the arm apertures and left to run for a minute.
